CARD FROM MR. GAMMILL

Bryan, Texas, Nov. 30, 1912.

To the Public:

I regret that any contention has arisen over the location of the inter-urban depot in Bryan. It is my desire to give the public the best possible service and to this end I am now extending the line to Villa Maria Academy, and shaping plans as fast as possible to electrify the line. These matters take time and the public is urged to exercise patience. The traffic has gone beyond our most exaggerated expectations, which necessitates a revision of plans and financial arrangements. We are also arranging to extend the line into the Brazos bottom, and have every reason to believe that our efforts are to be crowned with success, but I ask the public to remember that bickering and dissension over small matters often defeat great projects; therefore I ask you to exercise patience and your united support in bringing about the success of the plans for betterment and extension.

O. E. Gammill,
General Manager Bryan-College Inter-urban Railway.

Senator O'Dell is sick and there is not enough time anyhow to finish the argument by midnight.

ALLEN WOUND UP FOOTBALL SEASON

Last Game Was with Marlin High, Marlin Winning in a Doubtful Score of 16 to 12.

Allen Academy ended her football season Thanksgiving in Marlin, where the Marlin High School won a doubtful victory by the score of 16 to 12. The Allen boys played consistent ball all the way and made their two touchdowns by hard playing.

Marlin scored in the first quarter on a fumble by Allen. In the second she scored again on a drop-kick. Allen then gained possession of the pigskin and marched down the field on line backs and end runs. Hammer scored Allen's first touchdown by plunging through the line for fifteen yards. Their second score came in the third quarter. The Allen line held the Marlin backs and forced them to kick. On the kick the ball was blocked and by pretty broken running Knittle scored again.

In the last quarter, with four minutes to play, the referee rendered a doubtfully close decision in favor of the Marlin team when the ball was in Allen's possession in their own territory. On this decision he gave the ball to Marlin and they scored on a forward pass from a fake place kick formation.

The Allen boys feel that the victory was in fact theirs and feel the defeat keenly for this reason.

One of the Houston papers of last Monday contained a story headed "Sam Houston 9, Allen 6." Where the report came from is a mystery, for the simple fact that Allen Academy did not play the Huntsville boys at any time this year. An effort was made by the management of both teams to get together, but it was found impossible. The Allen boys believe that the heading of the story was a typographical error and wish to correct the wrong impression.

Foster's Weather Bulletin

Washington, Nov. 30.—(Copyright, 1912, by W. T. Foster.)—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent December 3 to 7.

Warm wave 2d to 6th, cool wave 5th to 9th. This disturbance will inaugurate a long period of temperatures that will average warmer than usual and bring less rain and snow than usual. Early in October we advised that precipitation on this continent would soon become much less, that the rains would go to South America, and that in other parts of the southern continent drouths would prevail.

Much less rain is now falling on the continent while it has increased in parts of South America, and particularly in the islands of the Caribbean sea and the Gulf of Mexico. This indicates that we have a good basis for calculating precipitation. We expect the principal precipitation for the next four months to be along the south of the equator and in the two large vicinities surrounding the Amazon valleys in South America and the islands of New Guinea and Borneo in Oceania. We made during the past four months a vast number of experiments based on weather records, and believe we have largely improved our forecast system.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about December 7, cross Pacific slope by close of 8th, great central valleys 9th to 11th, eastern sections 12th. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about December 7, great central valleys 9th, eastern sections 11th. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about December 10, great central valleys 12th, eastern sections 14th.

Warmer than usual, not much snow anywhere and less than usual rain generally, describes the weather features of this disturbance, and these conditions are expected to continue till after the middle of December.

The Christmas holidays are expected to have about average temperatures, but less than usual rain or snow. Indications are favorable to some snow north and rain south just preceding Christmas with a cold wave crossing the great central valleys near December 22, a day or two earlier further west and as much later in eastern sections. But that cold wave is not expected to be very severe, and therefore we may expect about a general average of weather conditions for Christmas and the holidays.

Cotton and all grain are cheap enough. Those who are prepared for it should house carefully their best grain and not sell it till after the holidays. It is never good policy to sell early and future prospects do not indicate lower prices. The same is true of cotton. Big speculators want prices to go lower in order that they can buy now and sell later at big profits. That is their game.

Local dealers should buy and hold grain and cotton. Some producers must sell and the local dealers will be able to buy all they can carry at fairly low prices. But it will surely be a mistake for local dealers to ship grain and cotton to the great centers.

Our calculations of 1913 crop weather, in detail for local sections, will be completed by December 10, and then we shall be able to give better advice about cotton and grain. Meantime we are thoroughly satisfied that early sales should not be made.

During May, June and July, 1913, some of the greatest storms of modern times are expected. We are preparing to give close details of these great disturbances and hope to give valuable advice about them. All nature is governed by fixed laws that may be known and understood.
